Contributors
Contributors

Chanwoo Lee graduated in Korean History at the Seoul National University 1986, and worked at Daewoo Economic Research Institute, and ERINA in Niigata, Japan before assuming his present position as a senior researcher and chief program officer of Sasakawa Peace Foundation in 2003. His main research field is Northeast Asian Economic Cooperation and North Korea.

Mya Than is currently Senior Fellow at the Institute of Security and International Studies, Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, and Associate Senior Fellow at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, Singapore. An economist, he has worked on regional and subregional cooperation, and economic and social development in Southeast Asia. Formerly, he was Senior Researcher at the Department of Research and Management Studies, Institute of Economics, Yangon, Myanmar.

Myat Thein was Rector of the Institute of Economics, Yangon, and presently member of the Mekong Institute Research Advisory Committee. He has been a Fellow at ISEAS, Singapore, and a consultant to ADB, UNDP, UNCCD, and UNDCP. His latest book is Economic Development of Myanmar (ISEAS, 2004).

Myoe Myint is a World Bank scholar currently studying International Energy Management and Policy at Columbia University, New York. He has worked as a National Economic Consultant at the Embassy of Japan in Myanmar. He has a Master of Business Administration from Yangon Institute of Economics in 2001 and Bachelor of Engineering (Electronics) from Yangon Institute of Technology in 1995.

Nguyen Xuan Thang is Associate Professor and General Director of the Institute of World Economics and Politics under the Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences. He holds a Doctor of Economics from the Institute of World Economy and International Relations, Moscow, Russia. He is editor-in-chief of World Economic and Political Review (in Vietnamese) and Vietnam Economic Review (in English).

Patcharawalai Wongboonsin is a senior research fellow of the Institute of Asian Studies at Chulalongkorn University and is a lecturer at its graduate school. She has a doctor of laws from Kyushu University in Japan, and has carried out extensive research on Asian regionalism and transnational migration.

Richard W. X. Hu is Associate Professor of Political Science in the Department of Politics & Public Administration, and Director of the Master of International and Public Affairs program at the University of Hong Kong. His research and teaching interests are in East Asian international relations and Chinese foreign policy. His latest publication is a co-authored book Building a Neighborly Community: post-Cold War China, Japan, and Southeast Asia (Manchester University Press, 2006).

Suthiphand Chirathivat is Associate Professor and former Dean of the Faculty of Economics, Chulalongkorn University. His research interests include international trade and investment, regional integration in Southeast Asia, current international economic issues, economic development, and economic thought.

Toh Mun-Heng is Associate Professor of the Department of Business Policy, National University of Singapore. He obtained his doctorate in Economics and Econometrics from the London School of Economics. His research interests and publications are in the fields of economic development and growth strategies, economic integration in Asia Pacific, competitiveness analysis, international trade and investment, productivity analysis, input-output analysis and macroeconomic modeling. He had edited and co-authored several books and has been consultant to many projects sponsored by government and international economic agencies.