Contributors
Contributors

Kimloan Vu-Hill has been a Lecturer in Vietnamese Language, Culture, and History at the University of California, San Diego since 1999. She earned her B.A in World History from the University of Missouri, Saint Louis in 1993, and her M.A and Ph.D in Southeast Asian History from the University of Oregon in 1995 and 2001, respectively. Her specialty is the social, political, and economic history and Vietnamese people in diasporas.

Montira Rato obtained her doctoral degree in Modern Vietnamese Literature from the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London. Currently she is a lecturer in Vietnamese at the Department of Eastern Languages, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. She is the author of book chapters and numerous journal articles on Vietnamese literature, culture, and society. She is also serving as deputy director for academic affairs at the Institute of Asian Studies, Chulalongkorn University.

Orathai Piayura is an assistant professor at Khon Kaen University, Thailand. She graduated from Khon Kaen University with a BA in English, obtained an MA in English Language in Literary Studies from the University of Nottingham, England, and a PhD in Gender and Literature from the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London.

Patchanee Tangyuenyong is an Associate Professor at the Department of Eastern Languages, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok. She has been particularly interested in Classical Chinese Literature. Her publications include Chinese Feminism and Chinese Teaching in Thai Social Context. Currently she is on the administrative committee of the Chinese Studies Center, Institute of Asian Studies, Chulalongkorn University.

Seubpong Changboonchu is a lecturer in Chinese at the Department of Eastern Languages, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University.
University. Currently he is pursuing his Ph.D. degree in Linguistics and Applied Linguistics at the School of Chinese as a second language (SCASL), Peking University. His research interests include Chinese lexical, Chinese pedagogy, and the relations between language and culture.

Siriporn Sriwarakan obtained her doctoral degree in Comparative Literature from the Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Currently she is a lecturer at the Department of Comparative Literature, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Her research interests include comparative literature, children’s literature, and humor in literature.

Usama Mahapasuthanon is an instructor in the Department of Business Chinese at Assumption University. Currently, she is pursuing her Ph.D in the Literature and Comparative Literature program at the Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Her main interest is women studies.

Winai Jamornsuriya is a Ph.D candidate in Literature and Comparative Literature at Chulalongkorn University. He studies Japanese literature and researches on Noh plays. He is a lecturer in Japanese language at the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Nakhon Ratchasima Rajabhat University.